Dedication and loyalty across the decades were the themes of a special recognition ceremony in Muscat during HSBC Bank Oman SAOG's Annual General Meeting.

Five staff members were honoured for completing 30 and 20 years of service, receiving awards from Sir Sherard Cowper-Coles, Chairman of HSBC Bank Oman, in the presence of shareholders, members of the Board of Directors and the senior management of the Bank.

The awarded staff are: Safiya Al Mahrouqi, Salim Al Yarubi, Saif Al Mamari, Sabriya Al Balushi and Muna Al Balushi.

"Dedication and loyalty are key factors for the success of any organization. As we celebrate our 70th anniversary in Oman this year, we also celebrate the contribution of the individuals who have contributed to HSBC's success over the decades," Andrew Long, CEO of HSBC Bank Oman, said.

"I congratulate and thank the recipients for demonstrating their faith and loyalty in the Bank, and for being role models to their colleagues".

A series of recognition ceremonies for more than 30 staff who have completed 15 and 10 years services were held separately at the Bank's Oman headquarters, celebrating the crucial role human capital plays in delivering business success.

HSBC Bank Oman strives to be recognised by its staff for providing a market-leading working environment, underpinned by people-focused initiatives such as our well-being programme, that fosters an inclusive culture where everyone has the chance to excel and grow.
